

Ottomar Anschütz, Group of Cheetahs (1888)

Abstract

This 1888 snapshot of two cheetahs was taken by photographer Ottomar Anschütz (1846-1907) in the Breslau (Wrocław) Zoo. Anschütz photographed the cheetahs in a special enclosure with a steppe-like ground. The background featured a painted landscape, which is barely perceptible in this photograph.

Source

Source: Ottomar Anschütz, "Einige allgemeine Erläuterungen über die Aufnahme wilder Tiere," in Photographische Mittheilungen, edited by Prof. Dr. Hermann W. Vogel, 25. Jahrgang, no. 386 (1888-89), pp. 307-08, supplement no. 14. SLUB Dresden. Available online at: <http://digital.slub-dresden.de/id31907381Z/348>

This work is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 License.

Recommended Citation: Ottomar Anschütz, Group of Cheetahs (1888), published in: German History Intersections, <<https://germanhistory-intersections.org/en/knowledge-and-education/ghis:image-7>> [April 09, 2024].